Handy hint from Marg Morters

There is a difference between DOWNLOADING an image and using SAVE AS. Always DOWNLOAD the image, because this way you get the full resolution. If you use SAVE AS, you only get the low res. that has been used for the initial screen display,

State Records of SA - Update

Good news. South Aust. Records have partnered with Familysearch.org to digitise some of their most popular records .

<https://www.archives.sa.gov.au/content/online-records>

Community Trees - Australia. South Australia. Date range: 1600s-1990s. "These community trees give information about families living mostly in South Australia. The information was taken from the South Australian birth, marriage, and death indexes, and some information from overseas. Where possible, sources are included and also some notes from the South Australian biographical indexes. Information in the latter, although not always verified, can provide at least a starting point for research. This is an ongoing project that will be updated as new information is available.
